

Big Drinking and the Big Society

Inequality and alcohol problems
– are we really all in this together?

35th Annual NDSAG Conference

Date: Thursday 14th - Sunday 17th April 2011

Venue: University of Lancaster, Lancaster

The NDSAG annual conference, for the first time will be held in Lancaster, it will incorporate a symposium featuring research funded by the Alcohol Education Research Council. It will appeal to practitioners, managers, researchers, academics and anyone else interested in the alcohol field.

For more information on our conference or NDSAG generally please contact Sam by calling 020 7940 7124 or e-mailing shillier@foundation66.org.uk

New Directions in the Study of Alcohol Group: Charity No: 281393

"providing a safe environment for original thinkers and speakers since 1976"

Big Drinking and the Big Society

Inequality and alcohol problems – are we really all in this together?

Our 2011 conference addresses the big issues facing alcohol treatment and research. Public spending is being cut. At the same time the case for investing in more alcohol interventions and treatment has never been stronger. New Directions will consider the key contemporary issues and challenges facing alcohol service provision and research.

Alcohol and Primary Care: Will the overwhelming weight of evidence for the effectiveness of alcohol interventions in Primary Care influence GP commissioning?

Alcohol and the Spirit Level: disadvantaged people experience disproportionate levels of harm from their drinking - is inequality the key issue?

Volunteering vs professional alcohol treatment systems: the Recovery movement and the other opportunities for voluntary contributions to assisting people affected by alcohol.

CONFIRMED CONTRIBUTORS

Roz Brooks (Norwich)

Donald Forrester
(Bedfordshire)

Ian Paylor (Lancaster)

Alex Copello (Birmingham)

Fiona Measham (Lancaster)

Robin Davidson (Belfast)

Sarah Galvani (Bedfordshire)

Trevor McCarthy (Leicester)

Nick Heather (Newcastle)

Tim Leighton (Salisbury)

Wulf Livingston (Wrexham)

& a Symposium from the
AERC

The draft conference programme will be available on the NDSAG website from December 2010:

newdirections.org.uk